Interview with Timur Onzhanov, Deputy CEO at AIFC Business Connect Ltd (AIFC), Astana International Financial Centre (AIFC) Authority

Timur Onzhanov discusses the challenges of Astana International Financial Centre Authority and the main objectives within the World Alliance of Financial Centers (WAIFC).

What are the challenges of AIFC in the upcoming months?

With global headwinds the wider economic picture of the CIS region continues to be a complex one, however, with Kazakhstan seeking to diversify through new structural reforms and modern economic drivers to boost financial connectivity and economic growth.

Kazakhstan has proven its resilience during times of uncertainty, such as the financial crisis, the pandemic, and increasing geopolitical tensions, by focusing on non-oil sectors, FDI inflow, GDP growth and improving the collaboration between the public and private sectors. According to Fitch Rating agency, country’s economy continues to improve on upward trajectory and has embarked on an exciting new economic agenda and is at the forefront of digital financial innovation in the Central Asian region. AIFC has a key role to play in addressing these challenges and increasing the inflow of investment and promote innovation in the financial markets, though we are just one part of the investment eco-system. There are global challenges like more competitive environment for capital as interest rates rise, geo-political environment that will shift FDI flows to be ‘closer to home’, a changing global tax and regulatory environment which is changing the way countries are thinking about investment incentives. This is a unique period of challenge and opportunity for positive development, in AIFC we are in an exciting phase of growth and will continue to work on creating an appealing advanced financial innovation ecosystem in the region to attract investments in financial, technological, and human capital and drive the future of finance. In particular, in developing our financial ecosystem, we are helping the financial sector fill the capacity gap. These include further expanding the AIFC jurisdiction, boosting the level of protection for investors, promoting rule of law, improving infrastructure, increasing regulatory transparency, and simplifying the visa and tax regime. AIFC will continue to work alongside Kazakhstan’s state & national agencies and financial companies to collaboratively lead the development of the financial markets in the region and supporting investment attraction, making the transition towards sustainable financial industry, driving innovation and supporting capital mobility.

What were the key objectives of AFD 2023 and how will it contribute to the growth of the finance industry in the Eurasian region? How does the WAIFC play a role?

One of the primary goals of AFD 2023 was to provide the business community with a comprehensive understanding of the opportunities and recent developments offered by the AIFC. By doing so, the conference aims to empower market participants with the knowledge and insights necessary to capitalize on the potential benefits and prospects presented by our jurisdiction, especially in light of the renewed AIFC strategy. Therefore we’ve structured the conference around five thematic topics, namely:
1. AIFC Products to explore the range of financial products and services offered by the AIFC, including asset management, fund administration, investment residence, Islamic finance, and others.

2. Jurisdiction & Regulation to delve into the practical application of AIFC jurisdiction, its role in regional cooperation, the ways of protecting the integrity of the financial ecosystem of AIFC, risks and regulations, and crypto and compliance issues.

3. Innovations & Capabilities which focuses on cutting-edge innovations and trends in the finance industry, such as fintech, digital assets, VC, and the latest human capital development trends.

4. Green Growth - that examines new sustainable finance instruments for a low-carbon development and the growth of a green economy, as well as importance of ESG-disclosure, carbon financing mechanisms and other measures required to ensure a fully-fledged approach to low-carbon and social development.

5. Focus on Capital Markets focus to highlight the macroeconomic outlook and investment opportunities in Kazakhstan, policy actions to maintain economic stability and reduce inflationary pressure, upcoming IPOs and current businesses of the AIX issuers.

Having said this, AFD continues to serve as a platform for AIFC’s commitment to foster dialogue among the AIFC stakeholders and partners. By facilitating open discussions and exchanges of ideas, the conference creates an environment where market participants share their perspectives and contribute on shaping the future of the finance industry in the Eurasian region. By bridging the information gap and promoting dialogue, AFD enables the AIFC to adapt and advance in response to the evolving needs of international stakeholders. This creates a dynamic and responsive financial environment, fostering growth and competitiveness in the finance industry in the Eurasian region.

We are delighted to have joined WAIFC and strongly believe that the collaboration within WAIFC member community mutually benefits respective jurisdictions. One of the key elements is continuing collaboration and partnership between financial centres to learn from best practice and share intelligence on ways to address the challenges of the future. The membership of our financial centres in World Alliance of IFCs contributes to the deepening and further expansion of this cooperation, considering the current economic and geopolitical situation, financial centres can become crucial to sustaining economic growth. By working together, we can secure long-term relationship with over 20 IFCs around the globe and promote cross-regional cooperation in the finance industry to stimulate and encourage joint trade and investment opportunities across financial institutions in respective jurisdictions. We should take advantage of the deeper collaboration with members of WAIFC, organize more joint events with key counterparties in international markets, leverage access to members and partners of respective IFC and enable closer interaction between residents and customers, connect foreign investors with national financial intermediaries through their established financial infrastructure and provide access to foreign capital sources.
